Russo Zone Change Gets 12-2 Support From Town Council

by Stuart Parker
Advertiser News Political Writer

Agawam Town Council approved a request by developer Thomas Russo Jr., to rezone 4.6 acres near Ramah Circle South and Suffield Street, from Agricultural to Industrial A.

The council approved the request by a 12-2 vote, with Councilors Dorothy Nelson and Alfred Trehey voting against the zone change.

Russo told the council he intends to use the newly-zoned acreage in conjunction with an abutting three acre parcel, creating a miniature industrial park of eight separate buildings and lots.

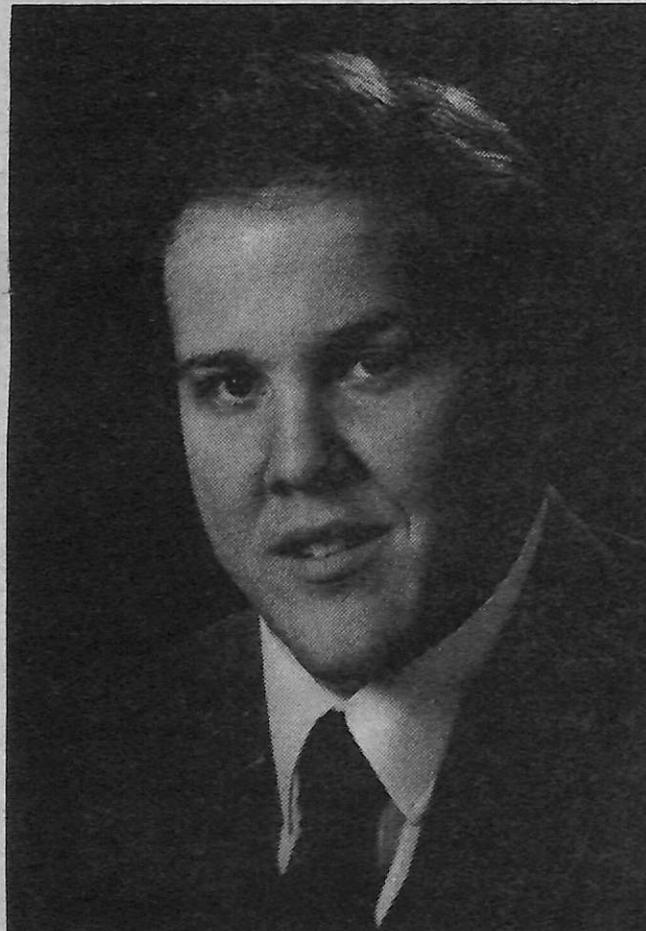

Russo has proposed to construct a 60-foot wide roadway extending 600 feet from Ramah Circle South, ending in a cul de sac for access into the property.

Several representatives from businesses abutting the proposed project spoke before the council in favor of the zone change, citing Russo's past development in the area as cause for future support.

Though the Planning Board voted 4-0 in favor of the project, Planning Board Chairman Charles Calabrese urged a 2,500 square foot detention area be utilized to control increased water runoff.

Town Engineer Michael Suprenant also reported concern that existing sewer lines from either Ramah Circle South or Suffield Street, using the Main Street Sewerage Ejector Station, would not be adequate to prevent the discharge of raw sewerage into the Westfield River during peak hours.

AGAWAM ATTORNEY ANTHONY BONAVITA has been appointed as co-town solicitor by Town Manager Reid Charles.

Ollari Resigns, Bonavita And Atkins Named

In his first major announcement since assuming the town manager's post two weeks ago, new Town Manager Reid S. Charles told The Advertiser News on Wednesday, June 5th, that he has appointed Agawam Attorney Anthony Bonavita and East Longmeadow Attorney Ralph Atkins as co-solicitors for the town, effective June 5th.

The appointments of Bonavita and Atkins immediately followed the resignation of Attorney Lambert Ollari of Feeding Hills as head of the town's Law Department.

Resigned Because Of Workload

According to Charles, Ollari resigned because of added workload to his private practice in Springfield.

Ollari could not be reached for comment at presstime.

Ollari has held the solicitor's job for the town since replacing Attorney Jay Posnik several years ago.

Charles said the town "appreciates Attorney Ollari's service to the town during the past seven years."

Bonavita will be returning to the town's Law Department after resigning as the town prosecutor and assistant town attorney under the administration of former Manager Edward A. Caba.

Bonavita, 32, is married with two children. He and his family reside on Arbor Lane in Agawam.

A lifelong resident, he is currently in private practice with the firm of Bonavita, Gordon, & Danie, located at 430 Main Street in Agawam.

He is a 1970 graduate of Cranwell Preparatory School in Lenox; a 1974 graduate of Fordham University in New York; and a graduate of Suffolk University Law School in 1977.

He is a member of the Hampden County Bar Association; is admitted to practice in the U.S. District Court for the District of Massachusetts; and is a member of the Agawam Chamber of Commerce.

Bonavita cited extensive background in areas of municipal law, zoning, and environmental issues in his application for the position.

Atkins, who practices in Springfield, is the present labor counsel for the Town of West Springfield and served under former Town Manager Katherine Pisano as a labor counsel.

He also presently serves as the prosecutor for the Town of East Longmeadow.

Appeals Court Rules That Council Can't Confirm Appointments

by Stuart Parker

Advertiser News Political Writer

The Massachusetts Court of Appeals ruled the Agawam Town Council does not have the power to confer upon itself the right to confirm the town manager's appointments to municipal department head positions. The decision was written by Judge C.J. Greaney.

The appeals court confirmed the June 11th, 1984 decision of Hampden County Superior Court Judge Lawrence Urbano. The council subsequently appealed Judge Urbano's ruling.

Sought Declaratory Judgement

The council attempted to vote itself the right to confirm the manager's appointments by an 8-7 vote March 5th, 1984, but sought a declaratory judgement on the matter in Hampden County Superior Court. This judgement was sought after former Town Manager Edward A. Caba refused to abide by the council vote.

Following Urbano's ruling against the council's right to confirm appointments, the council voted 9-6 to appeal the case.

Proponents of council confirmation contended that Judge Urbano's ruling had not addressed council Attorney William Flanagan's arguments for confirmation.

Flanagan cited various portions of state law in his brief to the court, maintaining the council had not taken an action in conflict with state statute, and that the right of confirmation was not denied by the town charter.

Judge Greaney's decision, reiterating the ruling by Judge Urbano, stated, "It (the Agawam Town Charter) vests in the town manager the sole power of appointment, and by clear implication, denies to the council the right of confirmation."

Judge Greaney did not directly comment on Flanagan's argument for confirmation through statutes, noting the state legislature had amended the Home Rule Amendment (through which Agawam developed its charter) earlier this year.

Greaney wrote, "After this case was decided in Superior Court, the legislature enacted chapter 363 of statute 1984, amending portions of Mass. General Law 43b."

Judge Greaney quoted the amendment to the Home Rule Amendment by stating "The provisions of 43b (The Home Rule Amendment) shall be deemed consistent with the provisions of any law relating to the structure of city and town government, the creation of local offices, and the distribution of powers, duties, and responsibilities among local offices."

Judge Greaney did note that the council could achieve the right to confirm the manager's appointments by a two-thirds vote and majority vote of registered voters in a referendum.

Judge Greaney added the council could also receive confirmation rights by special legislation, providing the Massachusetts Legislature acted favorably on a petition submitted to it by registered voters.

Councilor Jack Shaughnessy, who initiated the action for confirmation on the Town Council floor, commented he was somewhat disappointed by the decision. "I'm glad we have a clear understanding of how the new state law applies in this instance."

Concerned About Appointments

Shaughnessy further noted that at the time he brought up the matter for council consideration, several of the department head positions were expected to be vacated. He said that he, as well as a majority of councilors, were concerned over the qualifications of those who might have been appointed to the positions.

He said councilors were also concerned about appointments that were rooted in politics.

Shaughnessy concluded that after the council had changed managers (fired Caba last July), many of those concerns about who would be appointed to department head positions were alleviated.

Council Defeats Three Proposals On Revision Of Town Charter

by Stuart Parker

Advertiser News Political Writer

Agawam Town Council defeated plans to present voters with revisions to the Agawam Town Charter this November in a 7-6 vote, falling three votes short of the required two-thirds, 10 vote majority for passage.

Charter Revision Committee Chairman Jack Shaughnessy argued the amendments were needed for "clarification" and "fine-tuning" of the town's charter.

Five Proposals Remain For Action

Five of the eight proposals submitted to the committee remained for council action, with the creation of a personnel board, the elimination of the charter objection, and a $1,000 penalty for a councilor's interference in the town administration already deleted from the committee's recommendations, prior to the vote.

The committee determined that the creation of a personnel board would be better handled through town ordinance because amendments to the proposal would be more readily possible.

Committee members argued against inclusion of a $1,000 penalty for a councilor's interference in the town administration, noting state law already required a $500 penalty for such action.

The committee also decided against including the elimination of the charter objection as a charter amendment, citing input from several citizens during a public hearing which favored the retention of the charter objection.

Among the items still pending before the council were a language alteration that states town meetings would be posted by 48 hours in advance, as required by state law. Currently a 24-hour advance notice of town meetings, as cited by the town charter, is being used.

The amendments would also have placed the election of the Town Council clerk and town accountant by the council into the off-election years of the council.

The committee recommended the deletion of a charter objection during the removal procedure for a town manager. Members noted that the charter already provided three separate votes be taken to remove a manager, and that the delay incurred during this procedure by a charter objection was nothing more than dilatory.

Controversial Issue

The fifth recommendation of the committee was to prevent the town manager from entering into final agreement with any town bargaining unit prior to Town Council approval for funding of the agreement.

This particular issue has caused considerable controversy in the past, as several councilors and bargaining unit spokesman contend salary increases to town personnel are binding once the manager signs a contract at the conclusion of negotiations. They contend this is binding whether or not the council has provided the funding to support the contract.

Committee members Neil Blatt and Peter Longo expressed hopes that preventing the manager from signing any agreement prior to receiving funding approval from the council would clarify the council's position in negotiations. They said it would also prevent arguments from bargaining units that the manager had not bargained in good faith.

As a possible remedy to the situation, Attorney David Ladizki, representing Russo, said the developer would use a septic system, if necessary.

Councilor Thomas Locke, however, noted a septic system might not be an adequate alternative. A planning board report cited the land was not prone to septic use. This could lead to contamination of ground water, the report stated.

Before the project is cleared for construction, it will again appear before the Planning Board.

Melconian Announces Release Of Report On Day Care Centers

State Senator Linda J. Melconian (D-Springfield), a member of the Senate Committee on Post Audit and Oversight, announced the committee's release of an issue brief concerning enforcement procedures, regarding group day care centers and suspected child abuse.

The document was prepared because of the increasing public concern over this issue, and because of recent changes in administrative practices by the responsible agencies of the Commonwealth.

The regulation of day care centers are entrusted to the Office for Children. They include detailed procedures for the licensing of persons wishing to establish and maintain such centers.

The Office for Children coordinates investigations involving suspected child abuse with the Department of Social Services and the local district attorney's offices.

It is the role of DSS to determine if a child has been abused or neglected, and the role of the Office for Children to determine if the license is in anyway responsible. With the new regulations, the Office for Children has the authority to suspend (without a hearing) the license of any facility suspected of threatening a child's life, health, or safety.

Currently, there are 1,736 licensed day care facilities operating in the Commonwealth. As of April 12th, there was a total of 60 ongoing investigations - concerning both group day care facilities and family day care programs - being conducted by the Department of Social Services and the Office for Children.

Between January 1st and April 1st, six licensed day care facilities have had their licenses suspended for suspected child abuse and neglect, under the emergency provisions of Chapter 28A.

In announcing the release of the issue paper, Senator Melconian noted, "This is an important issue. Every child should be entitled to the full protection of the Commonwealth. These regulations will result in speedy, fair, and accurate investigations of cases involving suspected child abuse.

"It is essential that the rights of children have precedence over the economic interests of licensees. I hope that these enforcement procedures will substantially limit the number of abuses in the future," she concluded.

The council defeated the revision recommendations, however, with no dialogue on the issues prior to voting.

Councilors Thomas Locke, Longo, Donald Rheault, Shaughnessy, Paul Trimboli, Blatt, and Mario DeLucchi voted in favor of the proposed amendments.

Councilors Frederick Nardi, Dorothy Nelson, Paul Paleologopoulos, Alfred Trehey, Philip DeForge, and Andrew Gallano voted against the proposed amendments.

Said Dubinsky, "Once again, we at Dunkin' Donuts were delighted to support the work of the Massachusetts Easter Seal Society through our annual "Buck-A-Cup" event. We especially want to thank all of our employees and customers for uniting with us in backing the programs and services of the Easter Seal Society, which help provide hope and a better life for disabled youngsters and adults."

Former Resident Robert E. Swanson Discusses Reagan's Proposed Tax Plan With Cable Network News

Attorney Robert E. Swanson, a former resident of Agawam, was interviewed on May 30th, by C.N.N. Cable News Network in New York City. Following the interview, listeners from around the United States telephoned their questions about individual tax matters to Swanson, who gave detailed answers.

Swanson, and his wife, Barbara, are co-authors of a very successful book entitled TAX SHELTERS — A

News, Activities From Ag. Senior Center

Senior Center Parking

If you drive to our Agawam Senior Center often, you surely are aware of the shortages of parking spaces that frequently occur. Not only is the parking area available for the folks using the Senior Center, it is shared by the Agawam Housing Authority office as well.

It has become necessary to ask our "day trippers," who must drive to the center, to use one line in the last row in front of the garage area (the north end of the parking lot).

Also, wherever possible, it is urged that folks arrange to carpool. This is especially important for overnight trips where a section of the parking lot is pre-empted for two or three days and nights (or longer). In fact, overnight parking is not recommended.

Your cooperation is urgently needed in helping the staff make your Senior Center accessible to all. It will be much appreciated.

Father's Day To Be Celebrated

Have you marked your calendar to be at the Senior Center on Thursday, June 13th? This is the special recognition for our "Senior Dads." Plan to come to lunch first for pot roast and stay for the 12:30 p.m. program, being planned by the Activities Committee. We guarantee there will be fun for everyone, and prizes for special Dads.

Next Food Pick-Up: June 27th

Registrations closed on May 29th for the June 27th food distribution. For those holding yellow cards, the next food distribution at the Senior Center will be from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., on Thursday, June 27th.

If it is possible for you to carpool with a friend or a neighbor when picking up your food, it will help to relieve the parking-space shortage at the center.

"Thank You"

Have you noticed lately, when you come to the Senior Center, the display of handcrafted items that are displayed on our "revolving sale" table by the ticket booth?

We offer a sincere "thank you" to the persons who make and donate these items. We can't name everyone because some folks prefer to remain anonymous, but their efforts are greatly appreciated. Not only do these items bring in a little income to the activities department, they certainly add a nice touch to the lobby area near the ticket booth and bulletin board.

Don't YOU Be The "Mark"

"Making the Mark" is a significant term in the world of con-men, flim-flam, and bunco operators. The program and film at the Senior Center on May 30th, presented by Miriam Silverman of Community Bank and Sergeant Al Longhi of the Agawam Police Department, was a real eye-opener.

No one can feel exempt from being singled out as a "mark" by the "professional confidence operators." Scams come in all sizes and shapes. Senior citizens seem to be special targets. The film gave graphic examples of the smooth operations of some of the common flim-flam schemes and scams.

Ms. Silverman and Sergeant Longhi cautioned: Be Suspicious of any approaches that involve money - your money - either by phone or by a personable, friendly, sometimes 'accidental' approach.

Remember, the police or your bank never call you for help, and a "uniform" is only a costume store away. If you are asked to call your bank (for what may appear to be a legitimate reason), don't use the "handy" number they provide. One of their operators will be on the other end of that number - not your bank!

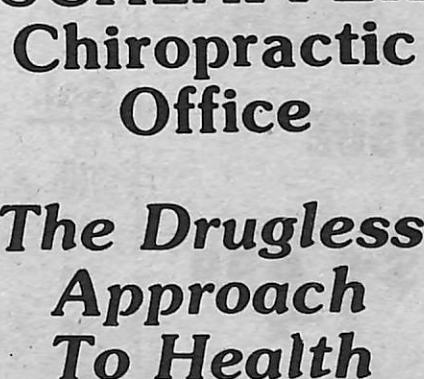

They emphasized that if someone tries to grab your bag, don't resist. But, if you can,

Tag/ Bake Sale Slated By F.H. Congo

Operation Friendship, Inc., Feeding Hills Chapter, will hold a tag sale and bake sale on Saturday, June 8th, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., on the church lawn.

In case of rain, it will be held in the church halls. The church is located at 21 North Westfield Street, Feeding Hills.

turn your pocketbook upside down so contents spill on the ground. (The snatcher won't stop to pick them up). Don't get yourself hurt, but do use all your energies to observe the person so you can give police a valid description. When out walking, ladies should carry a purse anyway, but don't have more than a dollar in it.

Sit down, if you think you are going to be knocked down. It may save injury.

Nuisance Phone Calls - don't give the caller any information. It's best to terminate the call. The longer you talk, the greater chance you will inadvertently supply the caller with personal information that he seeks.

"You've Won A Pirze" Phone Calls - the police will be glad to check this out for you. Don't try to check it out yourself.

Obscene Phone Calls - Have a whistle or a "screamer" by your phone - and use it. That person won't bother you again.

Watch your personal conversations on a bus or on the street or in public places. You could be talking about your vacation plans, and it would not be difficult for the con-man to learn your identity. You might come home and find your home has been robbed!

Your address on your check can give useful and easily obtained information to the con-man.

Don't admit a child, or poor, exhausted "travelers" into your home to "use the phone." Offer to make the phone call for them - but leave them outside.

Meals Donation

In an agreement reached with the Home Care Corporation, the Agawam Council on Aging has increased its requested donations for meals served at the Senior Center to $1.00

(from 75 cents, effective Monday, June 10th).

In the last year, the Senior Center has dramatically increased the number of meals served at the center, as well as meals delivered to home-bound elders. In order that the center can continue to accommodate as many seniors as possible, an increased donation is being requested.

The Home Care Corporation, by contract with the Agawam Council on Aging, subsidizes the meals at the center from federal and state funds.

Carrie Gallagher Wins Top Honors In State Writing Contest

by Alexis Ferioli
School Department Editor

Air pollution was the topic of a "KidsWrites" letter to Governor Michael S. Dukakis, earning sixth grade Agawam Middle School student Carrie Gallagher top honors for her grade level and state region.

Carrie was one of 24 students selected from a field of 1,500 from across the Commonwealth to be honored at "KidsWrites Day" ceremonies May 9th at the State House in Boston.

Open To Students In Grades 6-12

Sponsored jointly by the Massachusetts Envelope Company, the State Department of Education, and the State Environmental Affairs Office, the contest was open to students in grades 6-12.

Students were asked to submit letters to Governor Dukakis, stating what they believe is the most critical environmental issue in Massachusetts affecting them.

Letters, which were not to be more than 350 words long, were judged for their form, ideas, and handwriting.

Middle School English teacher Irene Thomas points out that this was the first time private industry, government, and educators have joined together in a project aimed at the state's youth.

Mrs. Thomas explains that since her two English classes had been learning to write business letters as part of their curriculum, she assigned the KidsWrites letter as part of her students' classwork.

Twelve year-old Carrie relates that she spent a week in class working on her letter. As a means of acquiring more knowledge about air pollution, she contacted the State Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) which sent her several informative brochures.

In her letter to the governor, Carrie suggested that air pollution be reduced by requiring fuels with lower sulfur content, as well as establishing more efficient emission control devices.

She also pointed out several health problems caused directly by air pollution, including lung diseases and cancer.

In her concluding remarks, the sixth grader stated that she believed air pollution to be a very important problem not only because it may have an effect on her, but also future children.

Accompanied to the midday ceremonies by her parents, grandparents, brother, and Mrs. Thomas, Carrie was personally congratulated by State Commissioner of Education John Lawson, Environmental Affairs Secretary James Hoyte, and Massachusetts Envelope Company President Steven Grossman.

Each winner received a "Governor's Commendation for Outstanding Achievement Certificate," as well as a sterling silver envelope opener engraved with "KidsWrites Day 1985."

Letters To Be Published In Boston Globe

Mrs. Thomas reports that the contest will be repeated next year (possibly with a different topic).

Carrie states that she enjoyed entering the "KidsWrites" contest and may enter other writing contests in the future.

"Carrie is a pleasure to have in my classroom. Her award-winning letter is typical of her regular school-work," comments Mrs. Thomas.

The daughter of Thomas and Carolyn Gallagher, Carrie resides with her parents, and brother, Brendon, on Pine Street in Feeding Hills.

Sacred Heart Slates Pre-School Program

The preschool program at Sacred Heart Church is held during the 9:00 a.m. Mass, each Sunday in the Parish Center. All children are special and the "I Am Special" series shows your children just how special they really are.

Since love of God and neighbor begins with love of oneself, the church curriculum centers on the child's development of a sense of self-worth, and an appreciation of all his human capabilities.

From there, it moves outward to encourage a sense of awe and wonder at the world around him, particularly animals and nature. The five year-olds experience a more "people"-oriented program of family, friends, neighbors, and God's children.

Three age levels were offered this year: Level I for three year-olds, pre-kindergarten, and kindergarten. The program, to be held on June 23rd, at 10:00 a.m., in the Parish Center, is a combined effort of all three groups.

The short program will focus on many of God's wonders and be highlighted by finger plays or songs. The kindergarten class will then hold a graduation ceremony in church during the 11:00 a.m. Mass.

Registration for next fall is being held in the Parish Center after the 9:00 a.m. Mass each Sunday to June 23rd. Alma Benton is the coordinator and teacher of Level I; Bill & Laura St. George are the teachers of the pre-kindergarten class; and Mary Ann Page is the teacher of the kindergarten class.

Agawam High Revels In Elizabethan Banquet Held On School Lawn

by Alexis Ferioli
School Department Editor

"Eat, drink, and be merry" was the sentiment expressed by 150 seniors at Agawam High School as they participated in the second Annual Elizabethan Banquet, Wednesday, May 29th, on the school's front lawn.

Lords, ladies, knights, jesters, jugglers, and archers were among the guests who attended the medieval feast, which was sponsored by the school's English Department.

An original idea of 12th grade English teacher James White, the Elizabethan Banquet also featured a variety of entertaining events typical of that era.

Entertaining Events

Some of these included fencing, wrestling, jousting, archery, and juggling exhibitions; Shakespearean skits of Romeo and Juliet and Hamlet; choral and musical arrangements; and a maypole dance.

White points out that he derived his idea from previous visits to England where he participated in similar celebrations.

The Elizabethan Banquet gives English literature students a refreshing change from the traditional term papers which they have always been required to write at the close of the school year, White says.

White states, however, that students were compelled to research Elizabethan food, music, clothing, and entertainment in preparation for the five-hour event.

He relates that students wishing to partake in the feast were charged $7. This fee covered food cost and tent rental.

"Egg-citing" Chicks Born, Nutured At Phelps School

by Alexis Ferioli
School Department Editor

"Egg-citing" things have been happening at Benjamin Phelps School for fifth grade pupils of Louis Spiro and Elizabeth Robinson.

The students recently became surrogate parents to seven baby chicks which they hatched from eggs.

Spiro points out that this is the sixth year his students have participated in the project which correlates with their science curriculum.

He explains that he obtained two dozen fertile eggs from the Community Feed Store in East Longmeadow. Utilizing borrowed incubators, the fifth graders meticulously cared for the eggs throughout their 21-day incubation period.

Because the delicate eggs had to be turned every two to three hours, students volunteered to take the incubators home during weekends to faithfully perform this task.

Spiro reports that the maintenance of proper humidity as well as a temperature of 100°F is essential if the eggs are to hatch. Although only six of his eggs and one of Ms. Robinson's hatched, he still feels that the project was successful.

Faulty thermostats in both incubators were the probable cause of so few births, he cites.

Spiro notes that a highlight of the project occurred when three chicks hatched right before his students' eyes during schooltime.

He relates that the entire student body was invited to view the tiny chicks at the convenience of their classroom teachers.

The fifth grade teacher explains that 24 hours after hatching, the chicks were placed in a heated brooder where they were fed water and a corn starter mixture.

When they were one week-old, the baby chicks, displaying tiny wing and tail feathers, were given to Agawam High School science teacher Kenneth Dean, who resides locally on a mini-farm.

Spiro states that there are several reasons why he believes the annual project is worthwhile. Besides learning that eggs do not merely come from grocery stores, the students become aware of the miracle of life.

According to him, they also learn that birth is a difficult struggle which better prepares all creatures for life.

Spiro points out that the fifth graders gained knowledge of electricity and thermostats, as well as created a false environment in which animals can survive.

Finally, an animal's need for food, water, correct temperature, and humidity was another valuable lesson.

Spiro states that he plans to continue with the annual project for as long as he can obtain an incubator.

"The students are thrilled and amazed to witness the miracle of life in their classroom. Watching a tiny chick struggle to break its shell to be born is an experience which they will never forget," he remarks.

Steven Fields Named To National Dean's List

Steven Fields of 41 Stewart Lane, Agawam, has been named to the National Dean's List for the second year in a row. Only one half of one percent of college and university students in the country receive this honor.

Fields is attending Our Lady of the Lake University in San Antonio, Texas. He is majoring in social services and is employed part-time working with emotionally troubled children ages 11 to 17. He will graduate in June 1986 and plans to continue working towards his masters degree.

He is the son of Ruth Bitzas of Stewart Lane, Agawam, and Richard Fields of Craig Drive, West Springfield.

This year's banquet featured a more elaborate seven-course menu, as well as entertainment between courses.

Some of the traditional fare featured on the menu included cream of potato and leek soup, baked fish, roasted chicken, buttered potatoes, short ribs of beef in gravy, and English pudding.

The 18-year teacher expresses his gratitude to school cafeteria manager Barbara Capponecelli for her assistance in preparation of the meal, which was cooked by students.

Moreover, he acknowledges the invaluable assistance of Vice Principal Mary Charest who sewed approximately 25 costumes for the event. Among these were attire for archers, fencers, jugglers, serving wenches, wrestlers, lords, and ladies.

The banquet coordinator notes that besides himself, several honored guests were seated at the head table, including Sir Lawrence O'Brien, Lady Mary Charest, Lady-in-Waiting Melanie Poudrier, and two emissaries from Scotland, Lord Jeffrey Hastings, and Lord Chris Tourville.

Trivia Contest Sets Mood For Event

White points out that during the week prior to the banquet, a daily Elizabethan trivia contest was held. Open to the entire student body, the contest helped to set the mood for the festive event.

Authenticity was also duplicated in the performance of several vocal and musical renditions. Among the songs performed were "Greensleeves," "To Celia," "Spanish Ladies," and "Drunken Sailors."

White states that more elaborate plans for next year's feast are already being considered.

"Everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves and joined in the spirit of the celebration. I believe the banquet also helped to boost student school involvement and dispel apathy," he declares.

Junior High Students Experiment Telling Stories At Granger

by Alexis Ferioli
School Department Editor

Storytelling is a form of entertainment which has always delighted children.

Six special education students of Lynn Lawrence at the Agawam Junior High recently experimented with this art form, as they read stories which they had written to second grade students at Granger School.

Ms. Lawrence points out that this was the first time she instituted a story writing project, which correlated with School/Community Interaction Week, into her student's curriculum.

She explains that her pupils spent three weeks creating their story booklets which featured accompanying illustrations.

Granger School Principal James Loomis states that since fifth graders had previously written and read stories to the school's first graders, he suggested that Ms. Lawrence's students could read to the second graders.

The fledgling journalists found attentive audiences in each of the three second grade classrooms they visited.

Among the stories the 87 youngsters listened to were "Spitz and the Magic Garden," "The Wild Woods," "The Girl Who Loved Horses," and "A Special Summer For Anne."

Since none of her students had ever written a children's story before, Ms. Lawrence suggested that they recall one of their favorite experiences or dreams when they were eight years-old, the average age of their audience.

The students were asked to imagine what their characters would look like and what some of their favorite things would be.

After developing a theme and setting for their stories, each student completed a rough draft which was edited for grammatical errors.

The stories were then rewritten with title, dedication, and author background pages added for authenticity.

Ms. Lawrence says the project not only developed her students' language and creative writing skills, but also helped to bond them together.

"The students listened to each others stories and offered constructive criticism as to how they could be improved. They also learned how to communicate their ideas and values to one another through their writing," she remarks.

The special education teacher states that she learned a great deal about her students from their stories. For this reason, Ms. Lawrence will institute the project earlier next year. She notes that poems, science fiction, and fairy tales may be possible future projects.

"Some of my students who claimed to hate to draw did an extraordinary job on their illustrations. So many of their deepest feelings and fears came through in their stories, I gained a new insight into their personalities. I'm very pleased with the results of this project and feel it was very worthwhile for everyone involved," says Ms. Lawrence.

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS...

Sliech Auto Body Expands Operation

by Dorine Kubik
Advertiser News Feature Writer

Services at Sliech Auto Body, Inc., now include major collision repairs, touching up a little bit of crinkled chrome, 24-hour towing service, auto rentals, and a new efficient paint booth.

The company is owned and operated by Agawam resident John E. Sliech Sr. He has had over 20 years experience in the auto body repair business, and has owned his own company for three years.

Located at O'Brien's Corner at 276 Springfield Street, the company expanded in the middle of May.

During an interview with Sliech he said, "We have expanded 100 percent and have doubled our capability." He had a new paint booth installed inside the old Taylor Rental building that is located next door to his body shop. "The paint booth is fireproof and explosion proof," he stated. "The painter is not inhaling any of the toxic fumes in the booth and the car finish comes out dust free. The cars dry in an hour because of the booth's latest design."

He explained that the new painting area is a Devillbis-style. This draws air in from the top, covers the car, and goes out. The booth is also equipped with special lights to aid in the drying process.

"The average price today to straight paint a car," he said, "is $250, without any body work or fancy pin striping."

Agawam Auto Rental

One year ago, Sliech added an auto rental service to the body shop. The minimum age to rent one of his cars is twenty-one and the price is $15 per day. Cars are rented to the general public or someone involved in a collision.

Sometimes people rent one of his cars to go away for the weekend if their own car isn't up to par. He used to rent cars from a local company for people involved in auto accidents, but found it more profitable and efficient to buy his own fleet of autos and rent them himself. Included in his "fleet of rentals" are two 1984 Ford Tempos.

Other Services

Along with a complete line of paint work and renting of autos, Sliech also offers glasswork, restoration (rustwork), upholstery, and all collision work. He also offers a 24-hour towing service for those involved in accidents. "The majority of our business is collisions — people having accidents," he said. All work affiliated with a collision is done on premises.

"We sub-let upholstery work, vinyl roofs, shampoo and waxings," he said. Sliech does the actual work himself at the company. He employs seven people and the shop is open five days a week. He belongs to the Agawam Chamber of Commerce, the Better Business Bureau, the Association of Auto Body Craftsmen, the Auto Body Association, and the National Federation of Independent Businessmen.

Company Founded by Sliech

Sliech is a middle brother of three boys. His older brother, Steve, is a member of the Agawam Police Department and his younger brother, Billy, is on the APD too. He also has two sisters, Peggy and Barbara. Sliech resides on Elmwood Drive in Agawam and is a 1963 graduate of Agawam High School. He is a graduate of the Springfield Police Academy and also attended Springfield Technical Community College.

Sliech was a policeman in Agawam for ten years and, at the time he left, was an acting sergeant in charge of detectives. He was in town government for a short time as the first director of public safety. Included in his 20 years experience in his present field were seven years at nearby Sarat Ford Sales, Inc.

He has attended several schools for General Motors at the Dedham, Massachusetts Training Center. Sliech has two sons, Dennis, and John Jr.

H.P. Hood, Inc. Marks 25 Years In Agawam

The Agawam Milk Plant of H. P. Hood, Inc., on Main Street, is the second largest plant in the Hood/Agrimark system. Annual production volume is approximately 24 million gallons of fluid milk and byproducts, such as ice cream mix, buttermilk, and chocolate milk. These products are sold throughout Western Massachusetts, Southern Vermont, Connecticut, and some mix products are sold nationally.

Approximately 175 people are employed at this location to perform the manufacturing, shipping, distribution, and associated administrative functions.

Highlights of Operations at the plant, now celebrating 25 years in Agawam, are:

1. Milk Receiving

Receive approximately 5500 CWT/day, or 10 tankers.

Milk supply is from Vermont, Cambridge, New York, Massachusetts, and Connecticut, and consists of mostly direct from pickups.

Haulers are Henry, Clark, Moseley, Rouse and Connecticut Valley leasing.

Raw milk storage consists of three, 50,000 gallon silos and four, 10,000 gallon horizontal tanks are needed.

2. Laboratory

Tests conducted on incoming milk include temperature, odor, flavor, direct microscopic count, direct microscopic somatic cell count, butterfat, acidity, and antibiotic.

Additional tests are performed through all processing and filling stages and finished product samples are maintained for shelf life testing.

3. Processing

After receipt, milk is processed through three separators which separates skim and cream. Then, through the HTST (High Temperature Short Time), it is homogenized and pasteurized prior to filling.

The current processing system consists of stainless steel lines, with product flow directed by automatic air valves and microprocessing CIP controllers.

Over 40 different products are processed in this area.

4. Fluid Filling

There are eight filling machines in the filling room producing packages that range in size from four ounce pure pak to plastic gallons, and 20 quart scholle bags.

Most products are packed in plastic milk cases, but some products such as mix are packed in corrugated boxes. Weekly production quantities average about 450,000 gallons.

Almost 100 different packages are filled daily in this department.

5. Finished Products Warehouse

Product flows from the filling operation into the chest via one main conveyor, and is placed in storage until shipment. The product may flow directly to loadout operations.

Because Agawam is the major western region distribution point, products produced at the Boston Plant, such as orange juice, sour cream and yogurts, and at our Newport, Vermont plant, such as cottage cheese, are shipped into their Agawam warehouse for reshipment to customers.

Over 500 different items are stored and shipped from the Agawam warehouse.

Da Vinci's Swiftly Gaining In Popularity

by Dorine Kubik
Advertiser News Feature Writer

Grocery shopping, cooking, serving, and doing dishes day after day can wear down even the gentlest of souls. For those in town faced with this arduous task they MUST be granted my three wishes: "a grateful mate, a well-kissed cheek, and a restaurant dinner at DaVinci's every week."

DaVinci's is located at 60 North Westfield Street in Feeding Hills. The Italian theme in the restaurant abounds with soft Italian music, original paintings of beautiful Italy along the walls, and most importantly, the chefs are of Italian heritage.

Chefs

Agawam chef, Edward Borgatti, now cooks with Chi Chi Ferranti who is from Connecticut. During an interview with Marilyn DePalma, co-owner and manager she said, "The two chefs make a good team. They both worked and trained under Hotsy's in Enfield, Connecticut, at one time, and subsequently, they cook in the same style. Their sauces are made the same way, as are the many Italian specialty recipes that are offered at DaVinci's."

Chi Chi (Frank) Ferranti began cooking at this local restaurant last December and Chef Ed Borgatti has been at DaVinci's almost three years. Borgatti's reputation as being an excellent cook allowed an expansion in the menu and the addition of another chef.

"In the beginning," Mrs. DePalma explained, "the restaurant Judge's Chambers as it was called then, offered mostly lunch time meals. Full-course dinners were added later and the restaurant expanded in October 1984 and is now known as DaVinci's."

Several changes have taken place since the restaurant first opened. The bar was removed to another area and a small banquet room was added. This new banquet room can seat up to 45 people. A beautiful latticed Gazebo is in the main dining room and can seat eight. All of the table linens are a deep shade of red to compliment the Italian decor.

Regency Room

The elegant Regency Room, adjacent to the public restaurant, remains unchanged. It is always available for private occasions. The Regency Room has a separate bar and 200 guests can be comfortably accommodated. About three or four times a year the Regency Room is opened to the public by reservation. Joseph Calabraise heads the banquet room and said, "We serve and sing at the same time." The waiters and waitresses wear costumes, depending on the theme, and they serve meals and entertain at the same time in this room. Four dinner choices are taken from the regular menu from DaVinci's Restaurant, and even the guests have been known to burst into song.

"Some of these evenings have included songs from broadway musicals like My Fair Lady, Calebrais explained. Plans are now underway for a "Salute to Walt Disney" night. This will be announced at a later date, Calabraise said. Along with Calabrais, the staff also includes Steven Devaney as DaVinci's assistant restaurant manager and Steve Castelli, bar manager. Outstanding Menu

In DaVinci's there is a choice of eight appetizers to begin the meal, and six pasta dishes are all prepared al dente. Four poultry dishes are offered with their own individual style of sauce. The same holds true for their veal dishes. Five various beef dinners are offered, including a combination surf and turf.

DaVinci's has outdone themselves on their seafood specialties. They offer seven very special seafood dinners as well as six family favorites. Four items are listed under the children's menu. Their desserts are a dream come true. Among the extensive offerings are delicate fruit filled crepes covered with whipped cream.

All of their entrees include soup, salad, vegetable, choice of pasta or potato, and bread with butter.

For those unfamiliar with Italian specialty dishes, the menu explains each and every one. Prices are reasonable and during the week, various specials are offered that are not on the regular menu. Most recently, a hamburg, sausage, ricotta cheese and spinach combination wrapped in a crepe, served with a meat sauce, was offered. Another new dish during the week was eggplant calabraise. This is eggplant prepared with prosciutto ham and cottage cheese.

Mrs. DePalma said that the most popular dish at DaVinci's has been veal parmesana, and the dish served for the heartiest of appetites is "Seafood Alla DaVinci."

ham-it up in a scene from the Encore Players' production of "No Sex Please, We're British."

ENCORE PLAYERS Sal Marzano, Jeff Whitney, and Gerald Millette in a scene from the Encore Players latest production, "No Sex Please, We're British."

"No Sex Please, We're British Marvelous Comedy Now Staged By Encore Players

by Phil Benoit Advertiser News Entertainment Editor

In the two years that I've been reviewing plays produced by the Encore Players, I have been entertained by such delightfully funny plays as Not Now, Darling, Exit the Body, and the group's last show, Life With Father.

However, my funny bone has been tickled the most by the Encore Players' current production of No Sex, Please, We're British, their final play for the 1984-85 season.

The Anthony Marriott and Alistair Foot comedy, which ran last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, has two more performances scheduled for this Friday (June 7th) and Saturday (June 8th). All shows begin at 8:00 p.m., at the Emmanuel Church, 761 Sumner Avenue (corner of Sumner Avenue and White Street), Springfield.

Set in present-day England, No Sex, Please, We're British tells of a problem in the lives of two young newlyweds, Peter (Mike Joseph) and Frances Hunter (Marge Secora).

Though Peter has been recently promoted to the position of manager of a sub-branch of Britain's National United Bank, Frances is unhappy because she and her husband live in an apartment directly over the bank which Peter manages.

Anxious To Raise Money For House

Anxious to raise money so that they'll eventually be able to buy their own house, Frances corresponds with the Scandinavian Import Company, a business which sells glassware to customers who, in turn, sell this merchandise to make some money for themselves.

However, when she receives a package from the Scandinavian Import Company, Frances is surprised to learn that instead of receiving glassware, she's gotten a box full of pornographic pictures. And, through an error Peter makes during Act One, this company then sends pornographic books and films to the Hunter household.

To make matters worse, Peter's mother, Eleanor (Debra Geary), is currently staying with Frances and him, and the local police force is starting to believe that strange things are starting to happen around the Hunters' apartment.

No Sex, Please, We're British is, without a doubt, one of the funniest plays that I have ever seen. This two-act comedy, which was successful on Broadway as well as on the London stage, looks at the prim and proper nature of the stereotypical Englishman and how he reacts to things and situations that are not exactly prim and proper.

While watching this play, I was reminded of the uproarious humor that pervaded the kind of comedies which the British film industry made in the 1950's, such as the now-classic The Ladykillers and The Lavender Hill Mob.

Under the lively direction of Jean Burns, this Encore Players show runs smoothly and has excellent comic timing. In fact, No Sex Please, We're British is such an engrossing play that it's over before you know it, and leaves you wishing that it could have been longer.

But, best of all, Miss Burns gets impressive performances from the majority of the cast members, with the best acting being done by Gerald Millette. As Brian Runicles, an overly nervous man who inadvertently gets caught up in the Hunters' problem, Millette is outstanding via truly hilarious physical movements and vocal inflections.

Moreover, he performs a stunt (which I won't reveal within this review) that produced gales of laughter among the audience at last Friday's performance.

In the role of Frances Hunter, Miss Secora is also superb. Besides speaking with a remarkably convincing English accent, she conveys a charming, pixieish quality which makes her already winsome character even more appealing and interesting to watch.

Hilarity Typifies Act Two

During the play's second act, two women from the Scandinavian Import Company visit the Hunters' apartment and proceed to use their feminine charms on one of the young couple's guests (played with the perfect amount of frailty and timidity by Sal Marzano).

Performed with interminable giggles by Ann Keranis and Joy Hoff, these lascivious gals make a major contribution to the outrageous hilarity which typifies Act Two.

Miss Geary's portrayal of Peter's mother, Eleanor, depicts the kind of polite yet subtly sardonic mother-in-law who can drive daughters-in-law such as Frances nuts.

Aime Beturne and Joe Hoyt give fine performances in the roles of Superintendent Paul and Leslie Bromhead, respectively. These characters do not provide the story with a great deal of humor, but they do add to the formal and rather stuffy atmosphere which envelops the story.

The only cast member who didn't make a great impression on me was Mike Joseph. His acting as Peter Hunter was not bad or unconvincing, but his portrayal was too laid-back and mild mannered (in comparison with the vigorous performances by the other major players).

I was looking forward to seeing No Sex, Please, We're British because the Encore Players can produce comedies with much skill and polish. But, the show surpassed my expectation, and this community theater group deserves a lot of credit for exceeding their usual high standards of quality.

*PUBLISHER'S NOTE: Tickets for No Sex, Please, We're British are $5.00 for general admission and $4.00 for senior citizens and students. They can be purchased at the door prior to each performance, but reservations by phone are urged to guarantee seats. Call 783-1616 to reserve tickets.

First Blood Sequel Is Action-Packed But Unimaginative

Because the film First Blood was Sylvester Stallone's only non-Rocky box office hit, I didn't need a crystal ball to figure out that Hollywood would eventually make a sequel to it.

And, judging from the quality of that 1982 action drama, I didn't need a crystal ball to guess that Rambo: First Blood Part II would be as simpleminded as it is.

Stallone reprises the role of John Rambo, a disgruntled Vietnam veteran who wreaked havoc in rural Oregon in First Blood. At the beginning of this sequel, while serving a stiff prison sentence for his violent actions, Rambo is approached by his former commanding officer, Colonel Trautman (Richard Crenna), with an offer that will make him a free man.

The U.S. government is launching a covert reconnaissance mission to determine whether or not American MIA's are being held captive in Vietnam, and Trautman believes that Rambo's vast military experience and familiarity with the Vietnamese terrain are vital to the success of this mission.

Furthermore, by becoming part of this operation, Trautman's onetime soldier will be given a presidential pardon for his crimes.

After accepting the offer to join the mission, Rambo returns once again to the jungles of Vietnam. But, while his orders are to only photograph possible American prisoners and to avoid engaging the enemy, he feels obligated to free the captive MIA's whom he does find and to fight the Vietnamese soldiers he comes into contact with.

Meanwhile, at headquarters, the man in charge of this military operation, a devious Washington bureaucrat named Murdock (Charles Napier), is not happy with Rambo's disobedience of orders. And, for reasons of his own, Murdock hopes that the mission won't reach a victorious conclusion.

First Blood was a mildly entertaining picture. Though its plot, characters, and theme were unsophisticated and superficial, the film did have a great deal of fast-paced action in which John Rambo took on the entire police force of a small Oregon town and a multitude of National Guardsmen.

However, Rambo: First Blood Part II is an unsatisfactory movie. This sequel does have much exciting action and a pace that never slows down, but it's nothing more than a rehash of its predecessor. The only things which are different are the adversaries whom Rambo combats and the locale of the story.

Besides lacking the least amount of originality and imagination, Rambo is the kind of sequel which gives the term "sequel" a negative connotation.

The picture fails to add anything new to the one-dimensional personality of its main character, and the plot — like that of First Blood — consists mainly of a repetitious series of shootings and explosions.

And, by being a simplistic retread of what was basically a B-movie, this sequel doesn't even measure up to the quality of a B-movie.

ACC Craftfair Set For Big E Grounds

This month, the ACC Craftfair West Springfield (the "original" Rhinebeck with roots in Stowe, Vermont) celebrates its 20th anniversary. The fair will once again be held on the grounds of the Eastern States Exposition in West Springfield, Thursday, June 20th, to Sunday, June 23rd.

This year brings a record number of over 650 exhibitors to West Springfield, with over half coming from the New England states alone. Craftspeople will show work in wood, ceramics, glass, metal, fiber, jewelry, paper, and leather.

"Agnes of God" To Be Staged At College

Massachusetts ANTA will present John Pielmeier's play Agnes of God at Springfield College's new Fuller Arts Center on Friday and Saturday, June 7th and 8th, at 8:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 737-6798.

The highly-controversial play was first presented in a staged reading at the 1979 Eugene O'Neill Playwrights Conference, and had its professional debut in 1980 at the Actors Theatre of Louisville.

Agnes of God opened on Broadway at the Music Box Theatre on March 30th, 1982, with Elizabeth Ashley, Geraldine Page, and Amanda Plummer.

Agnes of God will be directed by Arthur Andrewes, executive director of ANTA, and is the first public performance for ANTA in the new Fuller Arts Center, the newest building on the Springfield College campus. This unique complex is a fully appointed theatre with 305 well-cushioned seats.

This year features a special "Preview Collectors Evening." The tax deductible admission of $15 will be donated to Springfield's Business Fund for the Arts in addition to the American Craft Council. All exhibitors' work will be available for sale that evening. Refreshments will be sold as well.

The Eastern States Exposition is located at 1305 Memorial Avenue, easily reached by Route 5 or Route 91. Admission is $5; children under 12 are admitted free.

Agawam Repertory Theatre Selects Plays

The Agawam Repertory Theater has chosen plays for next season, again to be presented at the Parwick, Chicopee.

This fall's production, by Fred Carmichael, is a hilarious comedy entitled Who Needs A Waltz?

Next spring Tribute, by Bernard Slade, will be staged.

Tryouts for Waltz will be in September at a date to be announced later.

Rambo also suffers from the fact that it is the fourth action film about American MIA's in Vietnam to be released within the past year and a half.

Uncommon Valor, starring Gene Hackman, and Chuck Norris' two Missing in Action pictures have taken similar approaches to this topic, and John Rambo's gung ho tactics are no different from the goings-on in these earlier movies.

Therefore, filmgoers who have seen any or all of these other war dramas will most likely find Rambo mundane and predictable.

Another problem with this sequel is that it, like First Blood, is hypocritical in its handling of the subject matter. Rambo and its predecessor empathize with the veterans who participated in the controversial Vietnam War and didn't get the same respect which veterans of other wars received upon returning home.

However, both films glorify warfare as an exciting and noble vocation which is worth committing one's life to. In this respect, Rambo and First Blood resemble the John Wayne epic The Green Berets, which came across as a recruiting poster and depicted the Vietnam War as a virtuous crusade.

In the role of John Rambo, Stallone shows less human characteristics than Arnold Schwarzenegger did as the half-man, half machine assassin in the science fiction thriller The Terminator.

Stallone's Rambo is an emotionally unstable man who lets his weapons do most of the talking for him, and he doesn't give us any reason why we should regard him as an admirable hero.

On the other hand, a model named Julie Nickson gives a somewhat engaging performance as a Vietnamese CIA agent who helps Rambo during part of his mission. Her role is a cliched one that lacks depth, but Nickson makes her character more interesting and likable than Stallone's Rambo.

Since it doesn't grow dull for a second, Rambo will hold your interest from beginning to end. But, once you leave the theater, the film will be relegated to a lowly location in the back of your mind, thus proving that action pictures can't always just rely on action to make them successful and memorable.

Rating: 1 STAR (On a scale of 0-4 stars)

PHILM CAPSULE:

Brewster's Millions: 1½ STARS - This comedy deals with a man (Richard Pryor) who must spend 30 million dollars in 30 days in order to inherit 300 million dollars. Pryor (Superman III) and the rest of the cast do the best job they possibly can, but the story is overly predictable and eventually becomes boring to watch.

Fletch: 2 STARS - Chevy Chase (Deal of the Century) stars as an investigative reporter who becomes embroiled in a complicated plot involving drugs, fraud, and crooked cops. Although Chase's wisecracking humor is enjoyable in this comedy drama, the mystery portion of the story is poorly written and too convoluted.

*THE PHILM GUIDE FOR PARENTS:

Brewster's Millions: Rated PG for mature themes.

Fletch: Rated PG for some mature humor.

Rambo: First Blood Part II: Rated R for intense violence.

Despite Viens, Amherst Stops AHS, 1-0

Brownies 7th Seed In Tourney

It was one of those games that no one deserved to lose. It will also be a schoolboy game that won't easily be forgotten.

Amherst Regional's Paul White smacked an RBI double to slice a hole in a pitcher's duel in the top of the tenth inning, sending the Hurricanes to an emotional 1-0 Valley Wheel victory over Agawam High on Monday, June 3rd, before a good crowd at Harmon Smith Field.

The Hurricanes' win eliminated Agawam's chance to share the Valley Wheel title with Minnechaug Regional of Wilbraham. The Falcons, by virtue of a 5-1 win over Ludlow on Tuesday, June 4th, clinched sole possession of the league championship with an 11-3 record.

The Brownies finished their 1985 campaign at 13-7 overall and 10-4 in the league. They tied for second with Amherst. Coach Gerry Smith's Brownies are seeded seventh in the Western Mass. Division I tournament and will face second seeded Pittsfield High on Tuesday, June 11th, at the Generals' home field.

It was Agawam's most intense and hardfought effort of the entire season when they took the field vs. Amherst. The first time the two squads met, Amherst escaped with a 5-4 win at their home field.

This one was a memorable duel between Brownie hurler Ron Viens, a senior, and Andy Ziomek of Amherst. They both dodged bullets in pressure-packed situations, especially in the late innings. Both went the 10-inning distance.

Neither team was backed-up by any offense. Amherst's one-run in the top of the tenth was the only mark against Viens.

Viens, in one of the best pitching performances by an AHS hurler since the days of Mike "Snake" Riley, gave up five hits, threw 161 pitches, and whiffed ten.

Viens had runners on second and third base in the top of the ninth with no outs. He promptly reared-back and fanned three consecutive Hurricanes. This effort brought the local gallery to its feet in loud applause.

The Brownies' ace finished the season with a personal record of 7-4. stranded during the first nine innings, but the pitching was just too good for the hitters to handle.

Through the first seven innings, Viens only allowed one hit, that being John Ziomek's line shot single in the third that just missed being caught by rightfielder Tom Murphy.

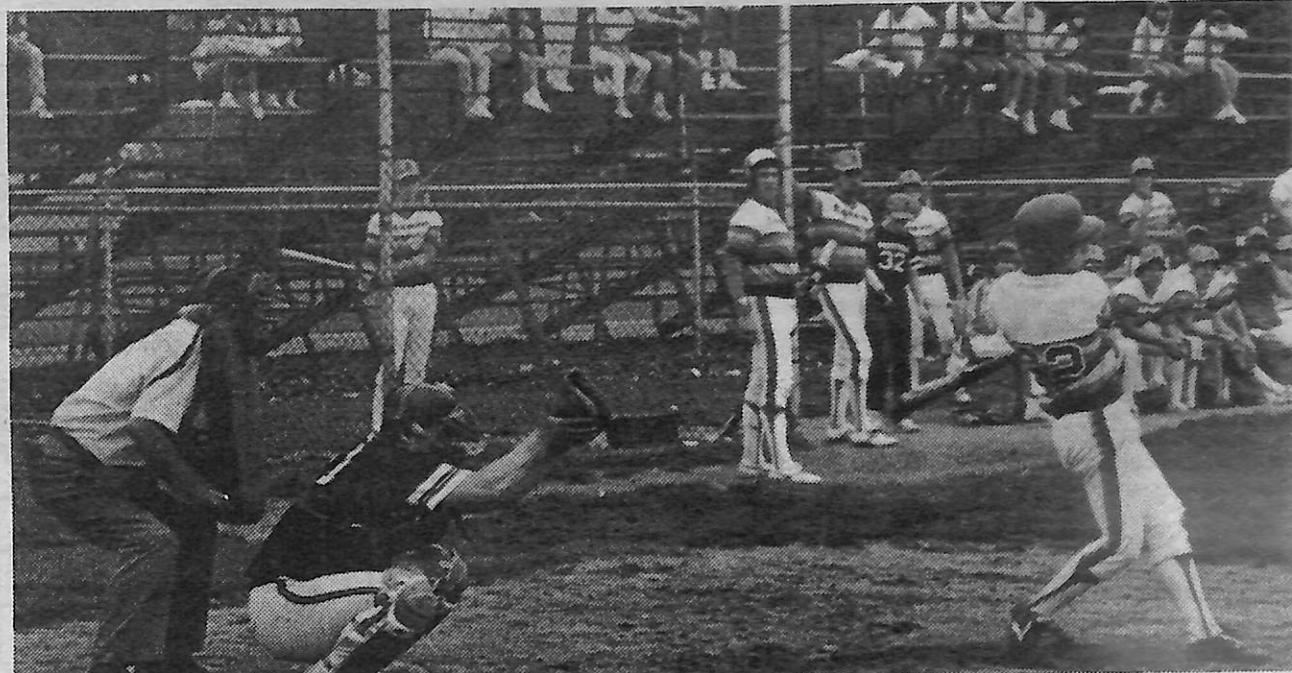

Offensively, the Brownies had several runners scratched by poor baserunning from second base. Amherst also had a rock-solid infield. The Brownies hits read like this: Murphy, single in the second; Tony Ingham, single in the fifth; and Ed Mutti's double in the fourth and single in the sixth.

Viens tried to help his own cause with a single in the third and a double in the eighth. Ziomek, a very crafty lefty, fanned 10 batters.

Agawam's best chances to pull-out the win came in the eighth. Viens led-off with a double that skirted the leftfield line as the chalk flew.

He then stole second. The Hurricanes then intentionally walked Bob Altobelli. Smith then called on pinch-hitter Mickey Lunden. He walked to load the bases. Ziomek then struckout Murphy to end the rally.

Leal Boys Lead AHS On The Links

by Judith Kelliher
Advertiser News Sports Editor

Two "big" reasons why the Agawam High School golf team shared the Valley Wheel title this season with East Longmeadow and Minnechaug was because of their number one and two players, brothers Ricky and Wayne Leal, 6'5" and 6'3", respectively.

The towering Leal brothers have helped propell the Brownies to their best golf season ever. They are slated to compete in the Western Mass. Team Championships at Waubeka Springs Golf Course (Williamstown on Thursday, June 6th (presstime).

Best Finish Ever

The Brownies, coached by Paul Bachini, finished 9-3 and were undefeated at their home Crestview Country Club this spring.

Consistent play at the number one and two positions were key factors in the team's success. Ricky, a four-year varsity player, has held the number one position for the past two years, and played number two as a freshman and sophomore.

He became the first golfer in Agawam High history to qualify for the Western Mass. Individual Championship all four years.

Wayne, a junior, is only a two-year varsity player as he didn't compete his freshman year. He sports an overall individual record of 20-3, including a perfect 12-0 record this season.

He has a three-year undefeated match play of 15 straight; furthermore, he's never shot in the 80's in a match and his lowest score was a 70 vs. East Longmeadow.

The Leals are modest in their feelings about their own play, feeling their golf clubs do the talking for them. Ricky has had the pressure of facing the best players in the Valley Wheel and has achieved much respect and success.

Wayne has totally dominated his opponents, giving the Brownies the luxury of having two golfers who can compete with the area's best.

*****

Ricky and Wayne's father, Rich, was the spark behind getting the two brothers interested in golf.

"I started playing about eight years ago when my father used to bring us to the Agawam Country Club (in Feeding Hills)," said Ricky.

"The game seemed to come pretty easy to me. I kept getting better all the time, so I really like it a lot," the elder brother added.

Their fast improvement and love for the game provided them with the necessary skills and attitude to excell on the course. According to Bachini, each of the Leals have their own strong points.

"I'd say Ricky's all-around game is his strong point. He's got solid irons and he's a decent putter. I've always been impressed with his ability to get out of trouble," Bachini remarked of Ricky.

As for Wayne, Bachini stated, "Wayne's best part of his game is his temperament. He's a very steady player who never gets flustered. He can drive an opponent crazy with his cool."

Added Bachini, "Wayne doesn't give away any holes. You've got to work very hard against him."

Sharing The Wealth

All the credit for the team's sharing the Valley Wheel title can't be shared by just themselves, according to both Leals.

"The top three players (including number three player Rob James) were expected to do well and get the most points this season," said Ricky. "But, our four, five, and six players really came through for us and contributed points to help get some team wins."

Wayne agreed with his brothers' sentiments, but pointed to the play of number five golfer Tony Cichetti as an important cog in the team's success.

"Tony played well this season and he won some key points for us. He was able to win some close matches and that really helped the team out."

Two other players mentioned by the Leals are the team's number four and six golfers, Greg Larouche and Tony Orefice, respectively.

Frosh Baseball Have 8-Game Streak Stopped, But Finish At 12-4

by Judith Kelliher
Advertiser News Sports Editor

The Agawam Junior High freshmen baseball team's eight-game winning streak was snapped after a close, 4-3 loss to Amherst in the seasonal finale on Monday, June 3rd, in Amherst.

A 19-1 demolition job of East Longmeadow on Thursday, May 30th, spiced a 12-4 1985 season for coach Lou Conte's charges.

*****

The last time Agawam faced Amherst, they captured an exciting, 11-inning, 6-3 victory on May 13th at home. This time they had a chance to win in the seventh, but a close play at the plate ended the game.

With the bases loaded and two outs, Jim Longhi socked a base hit to centerfield to score teammate Bob Regish from third. However, the tying run was cutdown at the plate, ending the game in dramatic fashion.

In the first meeting between the two rivals, B.J. Massoia blasted a three-run homer to end the game in a similar heart-throbbing manner.

Agawam pitcher Dean Proakis was superb on the mound in the loss as he allowed just four hits. He didn't get much help from his teammates offensively, however.

The Warriors trailed, 3-0 after a three-run first inning by Amherst. The locals pecked way at the gap in the third and fourth innings.

Frank Moccio got two hits, including an RBI single in the third, while Ricky Sheehan plated a run with a safety in the fourth.

*****

In the shellacking of East Longmeadow, Sheehan led the way with four RBI's, while Mike Egan knocked home three runs and Proakis collected three hits.

*****

Sheehan led the team in RBI's with 28 as he hit .377. Massoia followed with 21 RBI's. Hot-hitting Alan Boucher and Jim Anderson slugged .380 and .400, respectively.

In pitching, the Warriors achieved success with Proakis (4-1), Pete Vecchiarelli (3-1), and Regish (4-2).

AHS Girls' Tennis Reaches Div. II Finals Vs. E.L.

by Judith Kelliher
Advertiser News Sports Editor

In a contest that featured four three-set matches, the second seeded Agawam High girls' tennis team escaped with an exciting, 3-2 triumph over Greenfield in the semi-finals of the Western Mass. Division II tournament on Tuesday, June 4th, at Greenfield.

Coach Mary Wolochowicz's squad was scheduled to face East Longmeadow at presstime in the title match at Greenfield's Buttery Brook Park on Wednesday, June 5th.

Miss Wolochowicz was optimistic of their chances since the locals had split their two regular season matches with the Spartans.

It was a day for marathon matches under the hot sun as the Brownies needed to call on all their physical attributes to outlast the Greenies.

Greenfield, the Division C champs, had gone undefeated (10-0) in their division, which they have dominated for several years.

They found, however, that the Brownies, who were 9-3 in Division B, were a strong force that was used to tougher competition.

The deciding victory came at number three singles as Agawam's Cindy Slate gave her team their third match victory with a superb, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3 win over Jennifer Hickey. The Brownies number two player, Cindy Roy, outlasted Lisa Bontempi, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5, and their doubles team of Chris Kosinski and Jennifer Crean won the only two set-match, 6-0, 6-3 over Sheila Dillon and Heidi Wizwer.

In losing efforts, Agawam's number one singles player, Kathy Jemiolo, put up an excellent effort, but eventually bowed to Karen Currey, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. At number two doubles, Barb Garrity and Sue Bulson took the first set, 7-5, but Greenfield's Lisa Barnett and Emily Hudso rallied for the next two, 2-6, 0-6.

All The Local Sports With Us, Every Week!

Former nine-year High School of Commerce boys' basketball coach Mike Martin has been named boys' basketball coach at Agawam High School for the upcoming 1985-86 season.

Martin, of 120 Clover Hill Drive, Feeding Hills, will replace two-year AHS coach Peter Kowalski, who compiled an 0-40 record.

The 37 year-old Martin will be inheriting a sagging Brownie program that has a three-year overall record of 1-59, including the present 56-game losing streak, the longest in the state.

During his years at Commerce, Martin compiled some impressive statistics, including three state championships, five Western Mass. championships, a 36-game win streak from 1976-1978, and an overall coaching record of 162-42.

Martin's most recent coaching endeavor was with the Agawam Athletic Association-sponsored suburban 7th-8th grade girls' team. He, along with Bob Hersey, guided the girls to a perfect 20-0 season last winter.

According to Martin, he hopes his experience as a former player and coach will benefit the Brownies. Martin received All-City basketball honors for Cathedral High in 1965.

"I've been fortunate enough to have a lot of success in my coaching career. I hope that some of my experience will rub-off on the kids."

"I'm really looking forward to coaching at Agawam because it's going to be a learning experience for myself as well as the kids," Martin said.

Martin did note he will have a large number of veterans returning (11 will be back for try-outs) and that fact should help turn the program away from anxiety and frustration.

Martin went on to cite differences between the "city vs. suburban" philosophy of high school basketball programs, an area that will present an even bigger challenge to him.

"I think this job will be a big change for me. For one thing, the caliber of basketball play in the city is generally recognized to be better. When I was at Commerce, the kids I had concentrated only on basketball and had no other sports interests," he said.

"Now, it seems, that at the suburban schools, like Agawam, the kids get involved with other athletic activities. It's going to be a big adjustment, but one I feel can be made."

Brownies Tennis Continues Div. II Title Hunt

by Judith Kelliher
Advertiser News Sports Editor

One opponent down - two to go.

That's where the Agawam High boys' tennis team stands at presstime as they continue their bid for a first-ever Western Mass. Division II title.

Agawam, the number one seed, easily eliminated Turners Falls, 4-1, in the quarter-final round at their own hot courts at Harmon Smith Field on Tuesday, June 4th. They advance to the semi-final round against Mount Greylock of Williamstown at presstime.

Coach Ricky Hayden's netmen finished the regular season at 13-2 en route to capturing the Division B title. Their impressive regular season included an 11-match Division B win streak.

Agawam's only loss to Turners Falls came at the number two singles when Mike Jemiolo put up a good effort but fell, 6-7 (7-5), 3-6 to Paul Guenette.

The remaining four matches went relatively smoothly, except that number one singles, senior Steve Oberle, needed a little extra effort to down a stubborn Channing Davis, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

The smooth and lean Oberle used aggressive net play and steady baseline stroking to support his comeback bid.

Number three singles player, frosh Chris Ollari, remained undefeated (15-0) in team play with a 6-1, 6-1 shellacking of Kale Thompkins.

Both of Agawam's doubles teams played it cool under the hot June sun. Each won in straight sets. At the number one spot, the duo of Jeff Dietrich and Bob Coelln eliminated John Burnett and Ed Bannish, 6-2, 6-3.

The number two tandem of John Kovalsky and Curtis Wu earned a 6-2, 6-3 decision over Kevin Brown and Paul Saquet.

SPORTSMAN'S CORNER

by Bill Chiba

A Fisherman's Tale

After a few minor problems such as the motorhome not wanting to start and the hitch on the boat trailer having to be completely taken apart and readjusted, we pulled into Sampson State Park in Romulus, New York.

Sampson was formerly a naval training station during World War II and has one of the best marinas in New York State. We rented a slip (my wife and I), and then went to the upper part of Lake Seneca to Geneva to register for our 13th year in the Memorial Day Lake Trout Derby.

The past years we have caught fish, but never large enough to be in the winners' spotlight. We both voiced the opinion that this being the 13th year, maybe our luck would change. Little did we know!

2,084 Anglers In Event

The derby started on Saturday morning at 6:00 a.m., and the onslaught of boats from the marina was awesome. Every slip was filled and the local populace was steadily launching boats on the three ramps since 4:00 a.m. 2,084 anglers signed up for the event. The method of fishing varied and fish were being taken.

The most productive method was the pulling of copper wire. The fishermen have a coil of copper wire of several hundred feet. They let out the wire until the lure hits the bottom of the lake, then they jerk the wire every few seconds all day long. I don't understand how they can do it for that length of time. They do, and they were catching fish!

The lake was dotted with still fishermen using live bait. They anchored their boats in 20 to 90 feet of water. They were catching fish. Then, the trollers, using the Seth Green method, would go by. The Seth Green system is a line out with a bleach bottle acting as a giant bobber. The line below the bobber has lines with lures off of it every 20 feet apart, down to 100 feet of water.

It is complicated when a fish hits on the middle lures,

Riverside's Twilight 5-Miler Sets Another American Record

Riverside Park, New England's largest amusement park, was the setting of the Twilight 5-Miler Road Race that took place Sunday, May 26th.

American records in both the men's and women's field were set during the 5-mile road race. Bruce Bickford of Wellesley, earned his title by running a record time of 22:18. Bickford, 28, took the lead over Brendan Quinn in the second mile and remained out front for the entire race.

Rounding out the men's division with the top 25 runners, you will find Guy Stearns behind Bickford with 22:53; and Richard Mulligan of Ireland was a close third with 22:57. The remaining 22 places are as follows: Paul Gorman 23:04; Brendan Quinn 23:07; Marcus O'Sullivan 23:10; Richard O'Fynne 23:11; Don Norman 23:12; Andy Ronan 23:12; Hank Pfeifle 23:13; Tom Ratcliffe 23:18; Paul Hammond 23:19; Larry Barthlow 23:21; and Mick Capper 23:23. ## Riverside Speedway To Unveil New Format Beginning June 8th

On Saturday, June 8th, the Riverside Park Speedway will feature a brand new format for the Nascar Winston Racing Series, featuring three Nascar Divisions of competition.

As always, the gates in the stadium will open at 5:00 p.m., with racing starting at 7:00 p.m. Admission will also always be the same at the low, low family admission price of just $5.95 for adults, with children just 95 cents.

The triple header Nascar program will feature the Nascar Modifieds, with a regular 50-lap feature; the Nascar Pro Stocks with a 25-lap event for the sleek Trans Am and Z-28 Camaros; and then the added excitement of the Street Stock division in a 20-lap feature. Combine all this with 12 qualifying events and you have a spectacular entertainment program.

Riverside Park Speedway is in the middle of its most exciting season ever. The racing is just awesome. In the Nascar Modified Division, you will witness such noted feature drivers as Ken Bouchard, John Rosati, Reggie Ruggiero, Stan Greger, E. J. ## Ruggerio Flies Home At Riverside As Many Leaders Drop-Out

It was a tough night for leaders in the Nascar Winston Racing Series at Riverside Park Speedway on Saturday, June 1st, for the Manchester Oil Heat Cam 2 100-lap special event.

Marty Radewick of Agawam started in the number two spot to take the lead on the first lap with Joe Brady's Cavalier. Radewick started to build his lead and at one point led by almost a full straight-aways distance. It looked like Radewick was going to secure his first win of the season when he tangled with Wade Cole. The Cavalier then dropped liquid on the track and spun. Radewick dropped out of the event.

On lap 65, it was Stan Greger of Southington who moved to the front in the Febbreilo-Pelly Plymouth. Greger was just as strong as Radewick was when he led the event.

By lap 83 smoke billowed from beneath the Riverdale Chrysler Machine. On lap 85 the black flag was given, forcing Greger to drop off the pace. The third caution came out on lap 87 for Roy Seidell, who tangled down the back straight-away. Ray Miller, who was running a strong second, tangled in the debris, and received the assistance of the wrecker. So, Miller was forced to go to the rear.

Reggie Ruggiero of Forestville, Connecticut, took over on the restart after securing a ride in Bill Pelly's Stafford Modified. Ruggiero was challenged to the checker by John Rosati of Agawam in the Southwick Motors Pontiac. Rosati was the star of the show in the closing laps, working his way to the front on two occasions. Also running just as strong was Mike McLaughlin of Waterloo, New York.

At the checker, in bumper to bumper competition following Ruggiero, was Rosati and McLaughlin. Fourth went to Ken Bouchard of Fitchburg, who pitted twice to come back strong.

Fifth, after starting in the back, was Jack Lecuyer of Springfield, in the Teddy Bear Pools Pontiac. Rounding out the top ten were S. J. Evanson, Bruce D'Allesandro, Wade Cole (who won the 340 Bonus), Miller and Nels Linstedt. There were only four cautions in the event for minor spins.

Ruggiero gave credit for his win to Riverside, Bill Pelly, and Bob Polverari's former crew. "We didn't even know if I would get a ride when we got here tonight," said Ruggiero. "The car had a push, but I held on."

He received $1400 for the win in the 100-lap event, sponsored by Bob Reguis and Manchester Oil Heat.

Additional event sponsors included Whirly-Ball of Agawam. The heat events paid bonus money from Whirly-Ball and Cam 2. First in all heats and consolidations paid $100; second paid $75 and third paid $25. Heats were won by Greger, Ruggiero, and Radewick.

Dave Selleck of Sandy Hook, Connecticut, drove the Newton Shell/Jim Cash Chevelle to a hair-raising win in the Street Stock Double Point event. John Lobo of Southampton finished second. Third was Jim Mavilouanes. Fourth was Tom Barrett and fifth was Brian DuChunha. Sixth through tenth went to Gary Fiori, Dan Lavoie, Wayne Thrall, Phil Smith, Dan Delena, Rick Charland, and Dave Aeillo.

AAA Presents 8-10 Hoop Winners Awards

Radewick Excels At Riverside Track

Marty Radewick of Agawam is a hometown boy and is always among the heavy favorites at Riverside Park Speedway in Agawam. At the start of 1985, Radewick teamed with frontrunning car owner Luther Hosner. Hosner is known for his success with S. J. Evanson after winning the biggest event of the season at Riverside in 1983. The new team of Hosner and Radewick prepared a beautiful Cavalier, with advance designs by Radewick. The sleek Red 28 was impressive right from the start. It appeared as a sure contender for a win at Riverside in 1985. However, the team has just had one bad luck string occur after another. So, Radewick has been driving Joe Brady's Cavalier for the past two weeks and has been looking just as strong.

Radewick is one of many drivers that has a dream of becoming a Winston Cup Grand National Driver. However, for now, Radewick has just one goal: that's to win races at Riverside. Radewick, 32, has already proved himself as a driver, but he is also a successful business man. He is the owner of a successful tool and burring shop and one of the area's most successful night clubs - Marty's, in North Agawam.

In recapping his racing career, you can see how well that he has mastered the game. He is a former "Rookie of the Year" and "Most Improved Driver" at Riverside, and a track champion and frontrunner at Claremont and Monadnock. He has also won events at Waterford and Stafford.

During the last eight years, Radewick has won 25 events at New England's leading race facilities. Perhaps his most noted and favorite wins are the ones at Riverside. "I am a local guy and I love to win at Riverside in front of my hometown crowd," said Radewick.

Riverside welcomes competitors like Radewick to their Nascar Race Program.

For 1985, the list of competitors is very impressive with drivers like Mike McLaughlin, Ken Bouchard, Reggie Ruggiero, S. J. Evanson, Stan Greger, John Rosati, Ray Miller, and more. Riverside offers three divisions of racing at the low low price of $5.95 for adults, and 95 cents for children eight and under.
